

ABSTRACT

5 A database and data processing system for transactional and other data allows such data to be exported in various different formats as required by other systems. As an example, the exported data can be loaded into a business's general ledger. Data can be exported in different formats, quite flexibly with easy setup of new and different export data formats for different systems.

10

#1268022 v\2 - - 6#%02l.doc - 21513/6